

FIELD DAY AT AGRICULTURAL PARK.

ATHLETES OF POMONA AND U. S. C. WILL CONTEST.

Men Were Never in Better Shape Than at Present—Locals Say They Intend to Surprise Pomona—Fast Time Looked for in the Sprints.

All is in readiness for the intercollegiate field day between the University of Southern California and Pomona College, at Agricultural Park this afternoon.

The intense rivalry between the two institutions and the fact that both teams are confident of success, promises to make this one of the most memorable intercollegiate struggles ever held in this section.

The students of the University of Southern California, flushed with their recent victory over the defenders of the blue and white, are entering upon this latest tussle with much larger hopes of victory than they had previous to that encounter. On the other hand, Pomona has never lost a field meet to the local school, and after months of as hard training as was ever done on the Claremont track, they have no thought of seeing their colors go fluttering down to defeat, before the onslaughts of their old-time rivals.

The past week at the local college has been one continual scene of excitement. Every day enthusiastic and noisy meetings of the student body have been held and every one is keyed up to the highest pitch.

Tully Knoles who was elected "yell master" for the occasion, has been putting the rooters through their various stunts until he believes he could turn the most bloodthirsty band of Comanches that ever went on the war-path green with envy at the ear-splitting demonstrations of his followers.

Maynard Beckwith, with an orchestra of five pieces, will also be there to aid in signing the college songs. Megaphones, horns, flags, pennants, banners and hunting galore have been secured, and the largest, gayest and most enthusiastic crowd that ever cheered University's athletes on to victory is assured.

A special train, gorgeously decorated with the college colors, will bear the Pomona hordes to the scene of battle. Not a whit will the enthusiasm of the Congregationalist students suffer in comparison with that of their somewhat more numerous rivals. All the paraphernalia known to college ingenuity and nearly every noise-making device in existence has been provided to keep up the spirits of Pomona's contestants during the exciting moments of this great intercollegiate event.

What the outcome will be is uncertain.

Events which a week ago were freely conceded to one or the other of the contesting schools, are now persistently claimed by their rivals.

The order of events and the names of the contestants are as follows:
