

CARD ATHLETES TROUNCE TROJANS IN FAST MEET.

Northerners Run Away with the Field Events and Capture the Meet by Winning the Relay — Fred Kelly Saunters Out on the Track and Wins the High Hurdles and 220-yard Dash Hands Down.

BY WARDE FOWLER.

STANFORD'S southern sojourn was almost ruined yesterday when the University of Southern California track team waltzed up within speaking distance of victory. The northerners felt a cold chill chase down their backs when it was announced that the winner of the relay would win the meet. But this chill did the work and the Cardinals snorted around the track for an easy victory in the final event.

FAIR ENOUGH.

Coach Cromwell's athletes proved themselves superior in the races by getting 41 points to Stanford's 36. In the field events, however, the husky barbarians from the wilds of Palo Alto took twenty-eight tallies, leaving the locals only sixteen to get excited about.

Putting the two divisions together, the following features stand out: Stanford, 64½ points; U.S.C. and the L.A.A.C., 57½ points.

In the races, the Trojan heroes were encouraged and assisted by one Frederick Kelly, who captured ten points in a pair of events, the high hurdles and the 220-yard dash. Kelly was one of the quintette of L.A.A.C. stars who helped U.S.C. give the Cardinals the scare of their lives.

There was nothing to it in the high sticks. Kelly stepped out on the field for the first time in several days and defeated such notables as Halsted, House, Gansner and Chesnut. The champion ran in an easy, matter-of-fact way and was content to see a 15½ chalked down as the official mark. Gansner ran a pretty race and must have traveled the sticks in close to 15½s.

HE'S GOOD.

Then, feeling the call of the track still upon him, Kelly entered the 220-yard dash and was auctioned the race at 23s. flat. He had considerable competition in this event, but didn't cause the judges any heart failure by close finishes.

In the 220-yard dash Kelly was going so fast around the back turn that he nearly skidded off the course. He had an outside lane and no damage was done when this skid occurred.

Young Miller did some valliant work in the mile run, taking second place in a fast field and causing Aupperle to change his pace from an easy stride to a terrific jump. Aupperle took the lead early in the proceedings and appeared to be well out in front. About the start of the fourth lap both of the U.S.C. entries burst into a sprint and shortened up the distance between themselves and the Cardinal. On the very last turn Miller again increased his stride and sped up foot by foot on Aupperle. The assembled multitude rose en masse and commanded Miller to teach the northern expert the rudiments of the mile run. But the lead was too great. And at the very end the distance between the men was increasing rather than decreasing.

SAD.

Beebe omitted his favorite race, the 880-yard dash, and took a chance at the 440. This was fatal, for Rogers of Stanford was too good in the quarter and ran away from the local champion in the last stretch. If Beebe had entered the half, scores might have been different, for he could have given Schnell a terrific battle.

George and Cook defended the Trojan institution in the half and succeeded in winning everything but first place. The two locals finished so close together that the judges called it a tie. Doc Cook seemed to have a little the best of it on the jump, but the tape had already been torn down by Schnell, and there was no way of telling.

H. Lamport forced Lachmund in the hundred and Ken Johnson repeated the performance. At the end the Trojans were leading by an agreeable number of inches. The time, 10½s., was good considering the track.

When the field events came into sight, Stanford was in her element. Murray and Gillespie joined hands and finished the sixteen-pound hammer together at 132ft. 6in.

Caughy won the shot put. This young man is built from the ground up. What he lacks in speed he makes up for in weight. A sixteen-pound shot means no more to him than an ordinary boiled egg to the average man.

terialized in the pole vault. The bar gradually rose to twelve feet and then no one could get over it. All the entrants took their trials and missed. Then they decided that they would take some more. Clarence Bean of the L.A.A.C. grasped the bamboo stick firmly in his mits and took an awful jump at the bar. He made the grade and slid across with an inch or so to spare. Then all the other hopes took a swing at it and missed. After much argument and discussion Bean was awarded first and Blakeslee, Maurer and Greve tried to divide four points among themselves.

Bob Weaver, after having started numerous events in the city meet, appeared on Bovard Field, ready for more blood and sent the college athletes away with a practiced and steady eye. Thomas Donahue replaced George in the announcing position and make the welkin ring after each event.
