

RAH-RAHS WILL RAMBLE TODAY.

Trojans Take on Stanford Track Athletes.

Paddock and Lilly Should Serve up Thrill.

Schiller and Maynard Also to Show Class.

Dean Cromwell will send his U.S.C. tracksters against the pick of the Stanford varsity this afternoon at Bovard Field in what promises to be one of the speediest track and field events of the season. Both institutions boast of performers of real merit and a hot fight is certain with exceptional time among the possibilities of the day.

Paddock of the Trojans and Lilly of the Cards are expected to stage one of the feature races in the century. Paddock needs no introduction to the local track fans; Lilly steps the distance in 10 flat consistently and can be counted on to run his opponent to the limit.

Another duel on the programme is promised when Schiller and Maynard meet in the 440, and Chapman of U.S.C. and Green of Stanford should keep each other busy in the pole vault. Rogers of the Cardinal forces will make it interesting for Gansner in the hurdles if he lives up to the advance dope.
