

DYER DEFEATED BY S.C. FLYER

Frank Beats Olympic Mark in Fast Race

Ex-Stanford Ace Captures 200-Meter Dash

Summer Scores Victory in 200-Meter Run

BY HEAVEN DYER

Showing that he has apparently regained all of his old-time speed, Frank Wykoff of the University of Southern California provided the main feature of a rather dull afternoon at Patterson Field yesterday afternoon by beating Hec Dyer, former Stanford star, while a crowd of approximately 4000 fans looked on.

LEE BARNES

These two friendly foes met over the 200-meter distance and the Trojan flyer was victorious by more than a yard in the fine time of 10.6s. This effort equaled the official world's record for the race, but was one-fifth of a second behind the sensational time registered last week by Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's man of record, who looms as Frank's outstanding rival for the first Olympic trials at Stanford.

AIDED BY TAPE

Wykoff coasted through his heat of the 200 meters, merely running fast enough to finish ahead of Burch. At that Frank's time was 10.6s., equalling the Olympic record. Dyer won his heat in 10.5s. Hec was a bit nervous when the final was staged and did not run any too well. Frank, for the first time in his life, was taped about the waist to prevent any recurrence of the back injury which has been annoying him all season. After the race he declared he felt no ill effects and that the tape actually aided him in running as it served as a support.

Dyer came back in the 200 meters to better the Olympic record of 21.6s. by one-fifth of a second. In order to get used to things as they will be staged in the Olympics, the race was run around a curve, which accounts for the difference in time between what Hec did and our usual 220-yard records of around 21 flat or better.

The former Stanford runner had a real battle of it with Roy Delby of S.C., who finished one yard behind after racing on even terms with Hec until the two drove for the tape with everything they had.

Aside from these two events, Olympic records were smashed in the high hurdles, pole vault and 400-meter hurdles. But that doesn't mean much for practically every mark on the books will be erased this summer and on the basis of what they did yesterday most of our boys have a long, hard road ahead of them if they are going to withstand the challenge of eastern and midwestern competition.

Jimmy Pacer negotiated the hurdles in 14.5s., running one of the best races of his life. Peyton Talbot of the L.A.A.C., one of the favorites, was eliminated when he fell during the first heat. The Olympic mark is 14.5s. by Weightman-Smith of South Africa.

BARNES SHINES

Lee Barnes confirmed suspicions of the writer that he will be one of the men to beat at Stanford by winning the pole vault at 13ft. 3in. Lee is vaulting as well as he ever did and it is extremely doubtful if anybody in the country can beat him. He is one of our real western hopes. Bill Oraber of Troy could do only 12ft. 6in. Oraber doesn't vault well at Oxy, on the other hand, Barnes doesn't care where he vaults and this, after all, is the test of a great athlete. Oraber, of course, is pointing for the L.C.A. meet and undoubtedly was perfectly satisfied with what he did yesterday.

Deacon Dick Pomeroy, doctor of philosophy, professor of chemistry and minister of the gospel, showed that days and nights of heavy thinking have not hurt his athletic ability by winning the grueling 400-meter hurdles in 53.5s. This time clipped one-seventh of a second off the Olympic standard, and, as stated during the past week, stamps the former Caltech athlete as one of the favorites at Stanford. It takes a Caltech graduate to combine such heavy mental gymnastics with the running that Dick does.

His time was the second best he has ever done. He won the A.A.U. nationals two years ago in 53.5s. Dick has been handling almost ten years and there is no telling what he'll be doing once he gets used to track work. Jim Meeks of Oxy, slowed up by an ailing leg, was second, three yards back of Pomeroy.

Juan Carlos Zabala, Argentina's

gift to the track world, put on a training stunt for the Olympic marathon, which he hopes to win, by copping the 10,000 meters without straining himself unduly. This race produced no potential American distance stars and Zabala's time of 33m. 24.8s. was more than three minutes behind the Olympic mark.

A chap named Wilton Ivie placed second but got nothing for punishing his bunions because the officials, who enjoyed a short nap during the long drawn-out gallop, failed to recognize him in the melee. Apparently Ivie, a newcomer to these parts, did not trouble himself to learn the proper countergait, but at any rate, fans who watched the long grind from start to finish set up such a howl when Ivie's name was not included among the first four that a later announcement credited him with a tie for fourth. How he tied anybody but himself is beyond comprehension, but then I suppose there are some matters which should remain unsolvable to the common people.

BEANS FOR CHARLEY

Army department moguls who have contended that baked beans build biceps better than any other kind of fodder, and at less expense, can point with pride to the achievement yesterday of Charles Sansone of the Los Angeles Athletic Club who won the 500-meter race in 1m. 33.8s.

Charley was born and raised in Boston and never tasted anything but beans until he came to Los Angeles three years ago. Friday he guaranteed to run and win the 500 meters in 1m. 54s., but had to hurry this up a bit to fight off the determined challenge of Ferris Webster of Southern California who came so fast at the finish that it looked for a time as if he would beat the battling Sansone to the tape.

Sansone, who acts as Western Union boy for the L.A.A.C., is famous for his novel training methods. He eats, drinks and smokes anything he likes until the hour before he runs, lays off for sixty minutes and as soon as the race is over takes up where he left off.

ABLOWICH WINS

Edgar Ablowich surprised some spectators by winning the 400-meter final in 48s. flat, nosing out his team-mate, Art Woessner, by the width of a worm's hips. Only a sophomore, Ablowich is one of the coming quarter-milers of America. He is a powerful runner and should go well when up against a flock of heats. Jim Gordon of the L.A.A.C. doped to fight it out with Woessner for first, lacked the finishing drive of the other two and had to be content with third place.

Cornelius Johnson demonstrated that it takes more than a flock of collegians and clubmen to beat Los Angeles High by winning the high jump at six feet four inches. Just about the time Cornelius was engaged in heavy cogitation, while lying prone on the field, somebody let fly with the discus and hit him in the nose. Johnson's anatomy is spread over about 6ft. 3in. and it seems that the discus could find some other place to light than on the colored boy's beak. Luckily, Johnson was not seriously injured, although the untimely arrival of the platter brought to an abrupt halt his leaping activities which otherwise might have continued indefinitely.

HALSTEAD FIRST

Cliff Halstead of Southern California won the 1500 meters, but no in 3m. 53.8s. as was announced. Nobody notified officials the race was starting across the track and as a result they did not get the correct time which was 3m. 58.8s.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club won the meet by scoring 22 points, S.C. was second with 21, and unattached athletes accounted for 26 points.

Frank Flanagan of the L.A.A.C. got off a throw of 164ft. 3in. in the hammer, which is only four feet behind Dr. Pat O'Callaghan's winning toss at Amsterdam.

Dick Barber of S.S. was out of the broad jump due to further injury to his bad leg and Hap Walker won at 21ft. 5 1/2-in. Norman Paul, S.C.'s next best bet, was third at 23ft. 3in., but injured a leg and may not be much good two weeks hence at Berkeley, which cuts down Troy's scoring power considerably.

The first four men in each event qualified for the semifinal Olympic trials at Long Beach July 1 and 2 next. All athletes must file entry blanks by tomorrow night to 329 Metropolitan Building, Long Beach. Blanks can be secured from Hugh Pinney at the L.A.A.C.

The summary.

CRAWFORD NABS TITLE

LONDON, June 12. (AP)—Jack Crawford, Australian tennis ace, today won the London grass courts championship, defeating Hans Timmer of Holland in the finals, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4. Mrs. Dorothy Andrea Burke of Stamford, Ct., won the woman's singles title, defeating Miss J. Jedrejowska of Poland in the finals, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4.

CEDAR RAPIDS MAY QUIT

CEDAR RAPIDS (Iowa) June 12. (AP)—Unless attendance grows materially before July 1, the Cedar Rapids Baseball Association will quit the Mississippi Valley League on that date, King Thompson, president of the club, announced last night.

Yellowtail were brought in every day last week by anglers fishing from the Morris Ore-belt boats off Santa Monica, declares Capt. Jack Deane. Hundreds of barracuda and halibut were also taken. The summer season getting off to an even better start than the wonderful season of last year.

Speckled bass fishing was led by the anglers on charter boats, the captain also declared. The best fishing was had in the vicinity of Point Dume.
