CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) June 1. (Exclusive)—Fifty-two points in eleven events, seventeen men in the summaries and University of Southern California's seventh title in eleven years was the story in a nutshell at the fifty-ninth I.C.A.A.A. games.

"I'm absolutely dumfounded and Bill Henry would have been, too, if he had been here to see how well my kids came through." That's how Dean Bartlett Cromwell, the enthusiast who coaches the all-conquering Trojans, greeted this "Times" observer as he waited for Keith Brown of Yale to close his intercollegiate career in this country with a visit of 14ft. 5 1/2-in.

DRAPER STARS

Southern California 53, California 37 1/2, Stanford 11 and U.C.L.A. 6, were the team totals amassed as the west coast lads cut into the points for thirty-one places. And of all these individuals the one who caught my eye above all others was little Foy Draper, who flashed down the 200-meter straightaway to put the first dent in the varsity escutcheon of California's modest and able George Anderson. It took a near miracle to give Anderson a first in the 100 meters over the Columbia Negro flash, Ben Johnson, for the dusky express was four yards in front of the Golden Bear at forty yards and little Ben was still a yard to the good when he pulled a tendon with such force that he literally rolled across the finish line. But when Anderson, the lad from Pasadena, returned to run the 200 meters he was never in it against little Foy Draper.

The meet was all stowed away by the Cromwellians and there wasn't any tenseness left, but this was a personal battle which might have Olympic repercussions and the boys were giving everything they had. Off like a flash, after Al Fitch had broken twice, Draper streaked into a lead against the slow-starting Anderson, tore like fury into the tape to win by two yards and Foy gave Troy its fourth individual title.

"BENNY" LAUDED

Seven titles in eleven years is extraordinary, but it wasn't the team crown that caused Cromwell to stick out his chest.

"I want to be modest," said Dean, "but I can't help feeling elated that we scored in the 1500 meters. To think that Francis Benavides went into the metric mile with legs that felt like jelly and actually broke into the points was an exceedingly pleasant experience. I liked the spunk that all the boys showed, but Benny's gameness in the 1500 and the glorious capstone that Foy Draper put on the meet in the 200 meters are things I will remember for a long time."

There was never any doubt about the result after Southern California had become assured of starting each of its twenty men on the final day. A morning rain that continued until shortly before starting time kept the attendance to about 4500 and those who stayed away missed a treat.

FIRST THRILL

The first thrill came when Tony Genascio of Dartmouth on the final put snatched the title away from California's George Mackey by two inches, the mediocre winning mark of 49ft. 1in. being traceable, perhaps to a new ring on the edge of the Harvard Stadium football field, which the boys thought was soft and lacked springiness. Jim Reynolds improved half a foot over his Friday mark, but the Stanford favorite could not pass Mackey and had to be satisfied with third place. The winner, a Polish lad from Lynn, Mass., got the biggest thrill of his twenty-two years in producing the put that beat the Californians. Tony has a torn cartilage in his left knee that seemed to rend as he made his final effort, but it felt better after the measurement gave him the title.

Johnny Mottram of Stanford, leader in the javelin trials, was nursing a sore throat when he awakened today, and he did not compete in the final. His Nemesis of the last two years, Hop O'Dell of Manhattan, was six feet behind the curly headed senior from the farm when the final returns were in. Champion O'Dell added more than three feet to his Friday mark, but was forced to yield his crown. Wearing overshoes and muffs, Mottram was able to mount the pedestal to become the first of seven Californians to receive a gold medal. Born in Seattle June 21, 1913, of an English-Scottish father and Norwegian mother, Mottram found this award a great tonic for his ailments.

California's Thompson and Jacques, who share the California high-jump honors with Randall Spicer of Southern California at Palo Alto a fortnight ago, could not clear 6ft. 2in. today, but Spicer was over at that figure to give the Trojans their first two points, figuring in a three-way tie with two easterners to share third honors. Cornell and Tech boys split top honors at 6ft. 3in.

COPE STARTS IT

Then the track events began and Phil Cope, who will be 21 on June 17, gave the Trojans their first title. Off to an even start, the five finalists soon lagged behind the flying sophomore from Los Angeles, who ticked nary a barrier as he became the first record-breaker with a 14.5a. clocking. Cope is of Irish and English extraction and the blocky lad, who was born in Topeka, Kan., and entered S.C. from Oklahoma City, was happy that he had dethroned Phil Good of Bowdoin.

Good hit the final hurdle, so that he failed by two feet to catch Cope in a final drive. Roy Staley from Santa Monica was next, two feet behind Good and eighteen inches ahead of California's Tom Moore. Little Sammy Klopstock of Stanford hit the third hurdle and was six feet behind Moore at the finish.

Next came the exciting 100 meters, in which Anderson surged at the end to capture the title by two feet from surprising George Boone, Trojan sophomore from Los Angeles. Pasadena George, tense under the pressure of his first big race away from his sun-kissed shores, kept his form as Ben Johnson hit a soft spot 20 yards from home and writhed in agony as he dragged his right leg behind him. Anderson's time of 10.7s. was a tenth of a second behind the Les Ball and Bob Kiesel marks of the past two years, but was fast considering the soft track. The cinders were cuppy and both Anderson and Boone did well to drive unflinchingly as Johnson collapsed.

I believe that motion pictures will show that Johnson did not score and that Pitt's Sol Menaker won the fifth-place medal.

Anderson, like Cope has a Scotch-English father, but his mother is German descent. The lanky Californian, running in the distasteful pole lane, was 19 last February 2 and has many triumphs in view.

GENE VENZKE WINS

Gene Venzke, Penn's 26-year-old junior, had to fight off challenges from two Michigan State boys, Hurd and Gardner, to win his first I.C.A.A.A. title. The quarters were 57.4, 2:05.2 and 3.15, and galloping Gene made up an eight-yard deficit on the second lap to take command. Benavides of Troy was a dozen yards behind the new champion, but had enough grit to fight off Bellard of William and Mary in the last five yards to land fifth.

In the 400-meter final the U.C.

L.A. Negro, Jimmy LuValle, was two-fifths of a second behind his 600m meet record of 1933, and he kicked himself mentally that he had not turned on the juice in the stadium bend. "I felt I had the race in hand, but the time was disappointing," said the 22-year-old LuValle, whose margin of victory over Eddie O'Brien of Syracuse was a scant foot. Ring of Holy Cross, McCarthy of Troy and Kiger of Pitt, were all bunched in the second division, four yards behind the leaders, according to the judges, but Chief Judge Bill Bingham said that he believes the movies will show a different result. "I agree with Bingham," said Cromwell. "It looked to me as though our Jimmy Cassin was third, Ring fourth and McCarthy fifth." LuValle's 47.3a. was not up to his 47.1s. of the trials, but it was fast enough to win.

CARPENTER GETS MEDAL

Discus returns were then posted and Ken Carpenter, of Compton, who was 22 on April 19, was the recipient of the gold medal. He boosted his Friday mark from 156.10 to 159.6, while Randell of California added four feet to his Friday mark to land second comfortably. Phil Levy of Stanford could not improve his mark of the trials and was pushed back into fourth place by Tony Kishon, who later won the hammer for Bates, passing his teammate, Larry Johnson. Ken Carpenter has an Irish father, a Cherokee Indian mother and a French name, and he was beaming that he had been able to keep pace with the hot strides of his Trojan mates.

While Cliff Veysey from Aroostook county in Maine won the 3000-meter title for Colby College of Waterville, the Coast cohorts had reason to be proud of the fine work which Bob Fowler did in finishing in second place. The California captain-elect rated himself nicely and was climbing on Veysey on the home stretch. Veysey's time, 8m. 41.5a., was about two seconds behind the record.

HALF-MILERS GAME

In all the years I have watched these I.C.A.A.A. meets I have never seen a gamier bunch of half-milers than those which fought like demons into the tape. Columbia's Patterson, a pre-race favorite, was all over the track as he killed his chances. Gene Venzke, trying for a double, took the lead on the first bend, but Kenneth Black of Maine forced his way out front and stayed there. Less than three yards separated the first four men at the tape. Black and Michigan State's Jim Wright were given the nod over Ross Bush of U.S.C. and Venzke, but the judges did not agree and a redistribution of points is possible after the movies are examined. At the worst Bush was fourth, just ahead of U.C.L.A.'s 1936 co-captain, Bill Murphy, whose spirited drive down the home stretch put him in the money.

STROTHER MISSES

Gilbert Strother of Troy fell by the wayside in the low hurdles, but it took a 22.2a. record-breaking heat for fifth men by Ham Hucker of Cornell to eliminate him. In the final Hucker, 21-year-old sophomore from Buffalo, raced home ahead of three Californians—Dell Fishback of the Berkeley forces, Co-captain Norman Paul of the Trojan team and his team-mate, Eddie Hall, who cut-legged Phil Good of Bowdoin to add five points to the Los Angeles cup of joy.

Last of the track events was Foy Draper's thrilling 200-meter triumph. The short-statured lad from Huntington Park, born in Georgetown, Tex., with English, Scotch and Irish blood in his veins, and brother of Weldon Draper of earlier Trojan track fame, led home two Coast stars, California's Anderson and Troy's Al Fitch. Draper had been credited with a new meet record of 21s. in his semi-final, proving that Cromwell's strategy in keeping the little fellow out of the 100 was wise. In the final, with a freshening breeze at his back, Draper was clocked in 20.8s., but the mark was disallowed. "By-gum, that was worth waiting for," said Foy to Anderson as they got their medals. "And you deserved it, old boy," said George, all smiles.

BROWN SETS MARK

Finally came the drama of Keith Brown's new record vault, which certainly will pass inspection and may become the official world record. The Yale star first did 14ft. 1 1/4 in. for a meet record and his 14ft. 5 1/4 in. came on his second try. He rolled over the bar, which bounced up and down and turned over once, but stayed on as the grinning nephew of Golfer Bob Gardner looked up at it. Gardner was the first man to hit 13ft. in this meet, and now Brown has something to write home about. Trojans Meadows and Sefton got 6 points for tying Harvard's Dubiel at 13ft. 9 1/4 in.

Albert Olson broad jumped 24ft. 10 1/4 in. on his third try today, did 24ft. 9 1/4 in. and 24ft. 8 1/4 in. in his last two jumps, so he was a true champion. The son of Swedish parents, Al is a credit to his birthplace, Stockton, and his adopted city of Los Angeles. Because Monk Little of William and Mary got in a jump of 24ft. 5 1/4 in. to finish second, the Trojan advantage in this event, was lowered from 9 to 8 with Jungkeit and Crawford staying in the points.

OFF FOR HOME

S.C. and other coast athletes pulled out of town tonight. The Trojan schedule is Sunday in New York, Monday in Washington and then a quick skip through Chicago with the arrival home set for 8:30 a.m. Thursday on a Union Pacific train. If there isn't a howling reception down at the Central Sta-
