

Titanic Trojan Titular Threat in Platter Toss at Long Beach Today

All eyes will be focused on the magnificently constructed Trojan discus thrower, Kenny Carpenter, when he steps into the ring today to do his stuff in the Long Beach Relays. Carpenter, rated Uncle Sam's best bet in the platter-tossing event in the Berlin Olympic Games—he's a virtual cinch to gain a team berth—has exceeded the recognized world's record with a heave of better than 170 feet.

Wide World photo by Herb Dallinger