

Brown, Attlesey Top Coliseum Standards in Jump, High Hurdles

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN

Four Los Angeles Coliseum Relays records were swept aside by the finest athletes in America here and another was tied for the edification of 43,137 wildly cheering spectators in chilled Memorial Coliseum last night.

In the wild rush of sensational performances three great eastern baton-passing quartets from Manhattan College, Georgetown University and Morgan State showed their heels to our best relay teams of the West.

Fever Heat

World record breaking failed to materialize in the crisp night air but the sharpness of the competition kept the throng at fever heat most of the evening.

The marks erased from the books were:

The 16-pound shot-put, taken by Jim Fuchs of the New York AC at 57ft. 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.

The 120-yard high hurdles, captured by Dick Attlesey of the Los Angeles Athletic Club in 13.6s.

Broad jump, won by George Brown, UCLA sophomore, with a leap of 25ft. 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.

Wilt Wins

Mile run, captured with ease by Fred Wilt of New York AC in 4m. 11.4s.

Bob Richards, the La Verne College professor, representing the Illinois AC, won the pole vault with a record-tying 15ft.

In addition to the four new Relays marks, two new Coliseum records were written into history. They were in the broad jump and high hurdles.

Except for these two performances, by Brown and Attlesey, the Pacific Coast athletes took quite a shellacking while the stars from the East swept most of the events.

Stanfield Sparkles

Andy Stanfield, the Seton Hall flash who won three titles here a year ago, came close to repeating. As high-point man he won the 100-yard dash in 9.6s., finished second to Brown in the broad jump with a leap of 24ft. 8 $\frac{1}{4}$ in. and then topped off the evening by capturing the low-barrier race in 22.9s.

Manhattan College's sprint relay quartet trounced UCLA handily in the quarter-mile baton event and then edged out the Bruins in the 880-yard test after Georgetown University had bested Occidental in a stirring 2-mile race. Morgan State, anchored by the 400-meter world record holder, George Rhoden, made a walkaway of the mile relay, with Southern California nosing out California for second.

Top Performances

As had been anticipated, the top performances of the evening came from a pair of world record holders, Fuchs and Attlesey. Big Jim, the New York rug salesman, added almost two feet to the mark set a year ago by Otis Chandler, former Stanford star, now competing for the Olympic Club of San Francisco. Chandler was a strong second last night with a toss of 55ft. 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ in.

Attlesey's 13.6s. in the high barriers trimmed three-tenths of a second off his own record posted in 1950 and likewise erased the Coliseum's best which he and Craig Dixon, UCLA, had held at the same figure.

Brown's broad-jump performance was not far behind. The former Jordan High School athlete took off the Coliseum books one of the great Jesse Owens' records, a 25ft.-5 $\frac{1}{2}$ in. performance made away back in 1935.

Flick of Hand

Richards, who tied Cornelius Warmerdam's 15-foot pole vault record made a decade ago, missed doing 15ft. 4in. by the flick of his hand. He had cleared the bar on his fourth try and knocked it loose with his mitt on the way down.

His closest competitor, Don Laz of Illinois, failed at 14ft. 8in. after clearing 14ft. 4in.

Manhattan's Penn Relays champions furnished the surprise of the relays when they bested UCLA by two yards in 41.1s. Brown, fresh from his broad-jump triumph, ran a great anchor lap for the Bruins in the 880-yard test. He took a brief lead from the New Yorkers' Robert Carty going into the home-stretch, but lacked the stamina to last and was nipped at the tape. The time was 1m. 24.9s. This was nine-tenths of a second slower than the relays and world's mark held by SC.

Oxy Thrill

Occidental gave the crowd an earlier thrill by giving Georgetown a real tussle in the two-mile relay. The Hoyas from Washington, D.C., had things their own way until John Barnes of the Tigers took the baton from Bob McMillen on the final go-around.

Tall John sprinted out to erase a five-yard lead given to Georgetown's Joe Deady, but the effort cost him too much. Deady, running a 1m. 52s. final lap, regained the lead from Barnes on the final turn and won by seven yards, going away. The time of 7m. 33.2s. was short of the Coliseum Relays and world mark of 7m. 31.8s. placed on the books here last year.

After McMillen gave his all in the relay, he didn't start against Wilt in the mile. The FBI man, consistent victor all year, went far out in front and when SC's Jim Newcomb started his last lap spurt he was much too deep in the ruck to cause Wilt any trouble.

While not detracting from Stanfield's efforts, he was fortunate to win the low hurdles. Jack Davis of Troy was in front by two yards until he hit the eighth hurdle and lost a lot of distance as he staggered in third, just behind Attlesley.

The open quarter went as expected, with Rhoden taking the event in 47s. flat from Mal Whitfield, the Ohio State 800-meter Olympic champ. In the other open event of the evening, Walt Davis of Texas A&M captured the high jump at 6ft. 6in.

Henry Speaks

Bill Henry, featured columnist of The Times, a former sports editor of The Times and sports technical director of the 1932 Olympic Games, opened the night of great performances with a dedication speech. He was honorary referee with MacIntyre Faries, president of the Coliseum Commission.
