Injures Leg

in Spike Loss

Bakersfield defeated Long Beach, 90-46, in their Metropolitan Conference show-down Friday, but the Vikings suffered a much more serious loss when hurdle star Earl McCullouch pulled a hamstring muscle while running the anchor leg in the 440 relay.

McCullouch, who had already won the long jump at 23-5/8, pulled up after about 25 yards. The injury was high up in his left leg and he'll be sidelined for an indefinite period.

Ironically, Porky Jones, running anchor for Bakersfield, also pulled a muscle 10 yards later, but was able to limp across the line to give the Renegades the win.
